RUSSIANS ARE SEEKING A LOAN.

New York Bankers to Visit the Peace Envoys Now at Portsmouth.

PROBABLY FOR INDEMNITY.

and Still Save Russian Fride.

Messrs. Schiff, Strauss and Seligman Expected at the Seene of the Peace Conference To-day-Envoys Did Not Hold Sunday Session-Jans Wanted Time to Consider Wording of the Agreement on Corea-Feeling in Portsmouth More Hopeful Than Ever That There Will Be Agreement at the Present Conference.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 13.-Never since the envoys of Russia and Japan gathered at Portsmouth were the prospects of peace as bright as they are now. This statement is not a mere conjecture, based upon the fact that the plenipotentiaries itself a most hopeful sign, but upon the knowledge that Russia is engaged, through her envoys here, in efforts to raise money which if successful would enable her to pay house of Kuhn, Loeb' & Co., and Messrs. Strauss and Seligman of the banking house of J. & W. Seligman & Co. are expected here to-morrow for the purpose of consulting Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen with respect to negotiating a loan to the Russian Gov-

In the absence of an authoritative statement on the subject there is unofficial evidence that the Russians have been convinced from the first that they might ultimately be compelled to remunerate Japan for the expenditures to which that nation has been put to prosecute the war.

This seems a rather bold assertion in the face of the repeated declarations that Russia would never pay a penny of indemnity. But there are more ways than one pride of the payer, and there can be no ment, to arrange a basis for the payment

The action of the United States Government in paying to Spain the sum of $20,000,-000 to secure a bill of sale for Spanish Government works and ordnance materials in the Philippines set an example which may prove the foundation for an amicable adjustment of the differences between Russia and Japan, although in this case the principle would be reversed and the victor would return instead of retain the territory or property he had captured and receive a monetary consideration for his abandonment of what he had secured by right of

WITTE THE MAN TO NEGOTIATE A LOAN. Reasons of prudence and good faith require that certain important facts showing that the negotiation of a Russian loan has been and is contemplated shall not be disclosed. For the present all that may properly be disclosed is that the proposed financial arrangement is not the outcome of the note presented by the Japanese envoys to Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen on Thursday, in which the terms of the Tokio Government were laid down. Russia had evidently given consideration to the subject prior to the assembling of the Portsmouth conference and had approached great banking houses in Paris and Antwerp of large size would be placed. This knowledge brings up the question whether the substitution of Mr. With for Mr. Muravieff as the offief plenipotentiary of Russia was not due to a decision on the part of the St. Petersburg authorities that the adjustment of the war with Japan was not more a matter of money than of

Mr. Muravieff is a diplomatist and a jurist. Mr. Witte is primarily a financier. In the negotiations of any great loan by Russia he would naturally be the man selected to act for his Government in dealing with the money lenders. Mr. Muravieff had been officially selected and his appointment announced, and the choice of Mr. Witte in his place has never been satisfactorily explained. It was all the more mysterious and strange in view of the fact at the zemstvo congress at Moscow, in an that Mr. Witte and Mr. Muravieff belong interview with the St. Petersburg correthat Mr. Witte and Mr. Muraviest belong to opposite factions in Russia.

It is a common saying among the Europeans here that most of the members of He believed that Russia would, ultimately the Czar's peace mission are Muravieff men, while only a few are Witte men. This does not mean that any member of the mission is not in accord with his distinguished chief, but it merely emphasizes the fact that in Russia Mr. Witte and Mr. Muravieff are the leaders of different political influences. Mr. Witte was opposed to the policy which produced the present war with Japan, and he is now, as he recently declared, heartily in favor of peace if it can be arranged with honor to Russia.

the peace party for a statesman of opposite tendencies as the principal member of the peace mission must be regarded in itself as an evidence of the Czar's wish that the Portsmouth conference should not be abortive, but in view of the knowledge that the negotiation of a heavy loan is contemplated through leading American bankers with European connections; it attains a deeper significance, which the reader will not fail to grasp.

Beyond what has been said above there is nothing to add that will lead to a clearer understanding of the situation. It is sufficient to say that the Russian peace mission is apparently seeking the advice and aid of great American and European bankers prior to the discussion with the Japanese envoys of the condition made by Japan that Russia shall remunerate Way May Be Found to Pay Japan the Tokio Government for the vast pecuniary expenditures to which it has been put in the prosecution of the war. More light will be shed on the situation after the arrival here of Messrs. Schiff, Seligman

In the meantime the peace conference will go on unless some unexpected obstacle appears, and while it cannot be safely predicted now that a treaty ultimately will be made, the prospect of success is very bright indeed.

NO SUNDAY SESSION. In their session yesterday the Russian and the Japanese peace envoys got on much better than was understood from the information obtainable last night. As THE Sun said this morning, they devoted themselves to the consideration of the first article of the Japanese conditions, which is that Russia acknowledge and recognize have reached the stage of discussion, in Japan's preponderance of influence in

It leaked out to-day that, far from getting into a ser ous dispute, the adversaries did not materially differ upon the question at issue. The Russian plenipotentiaries Jacob H. Schiff of the New York banking showed a disposition to agree to the principle of what had been proposed by the Japanese, and when the session ended the four envoys had in effect reached an agreement. They could not, however, reconcile differences as to the proper phraseology of the article dealing with Corea, and it was the intention to meet again this afternoon for the purpose of attempting to agree upon verbal terms that would satisfy both

But there was no meeting of the plenipotentiaries to-day. Most people here supposed that the change in plan was due to a decision of the envoys that it would be well to rest one day in the week.

The failure to hold a conference was the result, however, of a note which Mr. Witte sent to Baron Komura last night in regard of adjusting monetary differences between to the difference over the phraseology of warring countries with satisfaction to the the agreement reached at yesterday's long session. After returning to the Wentdoubt that the envoys who are here will be worth Hotel upon the conclusion of the able, if there is an honest attempt at agree- meeting Mr. Witte thought he saw a way to phrase the article with satisfaction to by Russia of part at least of Japan's war | both Japan and Russia, and at 9 o'clock expenses in exchange for important conces- he sent a note to Baron Komura in which After examining this note Baron Komura and Mr. Takahira decided that it required an extended written response, and they requested, therefore, that no session be held to-day, in order to give them time to prepare their views Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen courteously complied.

The next joint session of the envoys will be held to-morrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

ST. PETERSBURG PESSIMISM. Bellef That There Is No Hope of Agreement

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 13.—It is considered here that both peace commissions in Portsmouth are now chiefly concerned over how o make the failure of the negotiations the least offensive to the United States and other neutral Powers. Russia strongly desires to avoid damaging President Roosevelt's prestige inasmuch as she is really indebted to him for an immense service. Japan undoubtedly has the same desire, although it is considered in diplomatic circles that she rather suffers by the whole

Some believe that the next session of the conference will be the last. Others are inclined to think that several more meetings will be held if for no other purpose than in tribute to Roosevelt's desires and with a view with a view to ascertaining whether a loan to a possible understanding on minor points which will prove valuable when real peace negotiations are reached.

There is some sensitiveness in official circles over the charge that Russia has again shown perfldy in her diplomatio methods, which was the true cause of the present war, by disclosing the peace terms at Portsmouth in violation of the agree ment with the Japanese envoys. It is ven suggested at the Foreign Office to-day that the truth may be that the terms are much more severe than represented and that the accepted version was allowed to leak out by the Japanese in order to conceal their more drastic character.

On the other hand, it must be remem bered that the present moment precisely suits the purpose of the Russian Government at the present stage of the domestic

This was not beyond her resources and it was without reason to regard the demand

"But," he added, "the limitation of the rights of sovereignty which the Japanese seek to impose is humiliating, while the cession of Sakhalin would be disastrous. Hitherto I admit the possession of Sak-halin and East Siberia has involved heavy losses, but the people hope that the future

The rest of the party, in tall hats and frock coats, followed in a hotel omnibus. A buckboard full of Secret Service men brought up the rear. The church wardens met the Russians at the door and escorted them to seats at the left of the chancel. It may be because Portsmouth is a churchgoing town and most of the inhabitants were at their own Sunday morning places of worship, or it may be because the news of the arrangements had not been spread At any rate, only the regular congregation was present, and there was no crowding. The congregation before the Russians entered numbered eight men and rather more than 100 women.

Christ Church belongs to the extremely nigh wing of the Episcopal faith. It prides tself on its elaborate services, its fine church and its vested choir. No sermon was preached and the only direct reference made to the presence of the Russians came just before the regular announcements. when Father Brine looked toward the official party and said: "Friends, I bid you wel-

After the service the Russians waited in he main aisle for Father Brine, who came from the robing room and shook hands with hem all. The congregation lingered on he lawn until the Russian suite passed out There was no demonstration.

JAPS DID NOT GET THERE.

The Japanese came pretty near getting o Christ Church twice, but they never arrived. They were expected in the mornng. It was given out, however, that the automobile which they had ordered failed to arrive on time, so they gave up the trip, not wanting to come in late. Father Brine. on he came to the hotel for his afternoon service, said that the Japanese would be at Christ Church in the evening. Conse-

As a matter of fact, Minister Takahira and Lieutenant-Commander Takeshita were the only churchgoers in the Japan party. They left the hotel at 7 o'clock n an automobile and were driven to the Christian Church at Kittery, where they were unexpected, but welcome. ## QUIET DAY AT THE HOTEL

It has been a bright and pleasant day bout the hotel. A shift of the wind has spot. It was time; the oil of pennyroyal had about given out. The sun is out, but there is a cool breeze. A number of weekend visitors have come in, together with automobile parties galore.

The dining room was crowded to its full capacity at luncheon. There was a bank of white, summery dresses on the broad chestra played sacred airs until 4 o'clock, when Father Brine conducted a short service for the guests of the hotel in the ballroom. Little was seen of either legation. Fifteen miles down the road they learned that Magnolia was yet two hours away. They put about, therefore, toured through the New Hampshire lanes for an hour or two and returned to the hotel.

TOKIO'S DOUBT GROWS. Increasing Belief There That the P Conference Will Fail.

Tokio, Aug. 13.-As was expected, officials here are impenetrably secretive regarding the Japanese terms. No hint obtainable as to the accuracy or inaccuracy of the reports which have been published purporting to give the terms. There is an increasing tendency to doubt if a settlement will be reached. The pub-lic is impatiently awaiting the renewal of operations in Manchuria.

BURGLAR WAKES LADY LAWYER. EXTRA SESSION IS UNLIKELY. And She Whacks Him With the Broom When Her Husband Collars Him.

Mrs. Travis Whitney, who was formerly Miss Rosalie Loew of the New York bar was awakened at 1 o'clock yesterday morn ng in her home at 211 East Fifteenth street. he nudged her husband. "I hear burglars n the kitchen!" she whispered.

Her husband got out of bed and went into he kitchen. In the dim light he saw a man who immediately started for the door to the hall. Mr. Whitney grabbed him and hey struggled about the room. Mrs. Whitney seized a broom, and when an opening offered whacked the intruder on the head. He surrendered. Police Headquarters was notified by telephone and Detective McMullen took over the prisoner. who said he was Morris Weinstein of 128

Cannot Be Found. A Polish farmhand, known to his employer as John Lietke, was killed in Jerome avenue at 177th street at 2 o'clock yesterday morning by an automobile, which escaped. In the machine were five men, who never stopped to see how badly the victim was hurt. It was a two seated maroon colored car, but that is about all the police have to work on. The detectives assigned to duty at The Bronx detective bureau are trying o find the automobilists.

Coroner Berry held an inquest last night and examined Paul Ritter of 1866 Jerome avenue, a witness of the killing. Ritter was sitting on the stoop of his home when he saw the automobile strike Lietke. The machine kept on going, although one of the men in it stood up and looked back. Ritter thought the machine was painted maroon. He ran up Jerome avenue until he found Mounted Policeman Lake. He told him what had happened. Leaving Ritter to telephone for an ambulance, Lake galloped his horse south on the avenue trying to overtake the automobile. He rode a mile and then gave it up, never even getting a glimpee of the machine. The ambulance surgeon who attended Lietke said he died almost instantly, for his neck was broken. He was 28 years old and a sober, industrious fellow. In his pocketshe had citizenship papers made out Boleslows Pokorski. The man's death stirred Coroner Berry to remark at the inquest that the men in the automobile ought to be hanged. This is the second killing of this kind in The Bronx in three weeks. The other victim was a twelve-year-old boy. The owner of the automobile that killed him has not been arrested, and the police are as much in the dark in regard to that case as they are in the more recent one.

SCREEN AS A LIFE NET.

Little Anna Greer Falls Three Stories and

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 13.-It was hot here this afternoon and when Mrs. Hugh Greer, living on the third floor of 126 Fulton street, put her three-year-old daughter Anna to sleep she wheeled the bed near the window, which was guarded by a screen. Anna was restless and tumbled against the screen, which fell out and forced the blinds open. Anna followed the screen which fell crosswise against the stoop and the fence of the Greer home, forming a net for the child.

The screen was smashed, but it brok the child's fall and she was picked up unhurt. An excited neighbor jumped into the automobile of Dr. Francis H. Todd who was ministering to a patient near by and played the auto horn with as much force as she could command. Dr. Todd came out in a hurry from the bedside of his patient and immediately went to the Greer home, but found that Anna had not sustained even a slight bruise from her thirty-foot fall.

MAGNET BETTER THAN POLICE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.-A large electric magnet near the mouth of the Calumet River may accomplish what the city and State authorities have failed to do. It may drive the gambling boat City of Traverse from the lake When the magnet is working, according to the South Chicago police, it is impossible for the boat to receive its wireless messages, they being intercepted by the induction of the magnet.

The magnet is owned by the Illinois Steel Company and is used to lift large steel plates. The work of lifting the plates begins daily at 2 o'clock and continues until 6 P. M. While the magnet is idle between 1 and

2 o'clock no trouble is experienced in receiving the wireless messages on the boat, but as soon as it begins operations the tickers cease to work. This has been the case for the last three days. The results of the first race came without interruption, but at 2 o'clock all messages were sidetracked. An investigation will be conducted by the wireless company to ascertain whether the magnet is the cause of interception of the messages. If it is the City of Traverse will give up its operations in Indiana waters.

PRESIDENT CHANGES HIS MIND ABOUT CALLING CONGRESS.

Arguments Put Forth by Senster Knox Said to Have Convinced Him That No Ratiroad Legislation Can Be Accomplished Before Regular Meeting Time.

OYSTER BAY, Aug. 13.-President Roosevelt, it is learned on authority, now entertains doubts whether he will call an extraordinary session of Congress on Nov. 11 next as he had thought he would.

Senator Knoz, who boarded the train at Easton, Pa., when the President was on the way to Wilkesbarre, it is said, strongly advised the President against calling the session. President Roosevelt had contemplated the extraordinary session for the purpose of having some railroad legislation enacted, as well as other legislation.

The President had planned to call such a session as far back as last spring, but a number of Senators and Representatives had gone abroad and for other reasons a session was then impracticable. Then the President had thought of the coming fall and some people had even been notified of the probability of the extraordinary session, and until the President's recent conference with Senator Knox the session was considered as almost certain to come. But Senator Knox pointed out that the extraordinary session, if held, would not really meet until about the middle of November. This would be only about three weeks before the regular assembling of Congress. And three weeks, the Senator pointed out, was too short a time to make it worth while. The President thought this over, and now it is known he is very doubtful whether the extra session will be

AN ENTENTE CORDIALE.

Senator Lodge on the Relations Between France, England and America.

OTSTER BAY, Aug. 13.-Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts left here at 9:48 o'clock this morning for his summer home at Nahant after having spent the night at Sagamore Hill. He said:

"The President and I talked about every thing under the sun. I saw a great many officials while abroad and I found that France and Great Britain have such a thorough understanding now that it practically amounts to an entente cordiale. Those two Powers are very close: also, both of them have a very warm feeling for the United States. More I cannot say."

The inference from the Senator's remarks and tone as he spoke was that a very close entente between the United States Great Britain and France was bound to come very soon.

Senator Lodge is a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations in the Senate and is very close to the President. There is reason to believe that the Senator has to some extent ascertained what would be the attitude of France and England to the Far Eastern situation should the peace negotiations fall through. It is supposed that the Senator has also examined Euroion upon our paternal rela

NEGRO BURGLAR SHOT DEAD. Assaults the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Schulte and Is Killed Resisting Arrest.

Curtis, while attempting to escape arrest here to-day, was shot and killed by Detective James Sullivan. About 9:30 o'clock Curtis, armed with an iron pipe eighteen inches long, forced an entrance into the rectory of St. Luke's Episcopal Church at Mechanicsville and murderously assaulted the Rev. Dr. Schulte and his wife, both of whom are 64 years old. They are in a critical condition.

The negro, whose main object was robbery, escaped from the building and started to walk to Saratoga Springs, distance of twenty miles. He arrived late this morning. Detectives found him secreted in a house. When the negro sought to escape and placed his hand on his hip pocket Detective Sullivan fired.

Curtis dropped and died soon after. The Rev. Dr. Schulte has during the summer supplied St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Mechanicsville, the rector, the Rev. Dr. Newell, being on a European trip. Mrs. Schulte is said to be a sister of the wife of Bishop Doane of the diocese of Albany.

Curtis was a native of New York and for the last two or three years had been employed in coal and lumber yards in Mechanicsville, Saratoga Springs and Ball-

The city has rarely been so pelted by ightning as it was in the thunderstorm that began a little before I o'clock yesterday afternoon. Hitting trolley cars was the specialty of the lightning, and many persons were hurt either by the electricity or in the panios it caused. One bolt stunned a yachting party of eight persons, killing one woman. The squall with which the storm introduced itself upset two small yachts in the bay and sent 500 immigrants adrift on barges that broke from their moorings at Ellis Island.

A chain of thunderstorms extending from Florida to Massachusetts made the Atlantic coast vivid with electrical flasher larger part of the afternoon. Hereabout the cloud discharges were of the triphammer, slashing variety. The lightning struck low and hit hard. The Weather Bureau said there was only one storm, but was willing to admit that it dripped its fire and water on the instalment plan.

The first thunder heard on the official tower was recorded at 12:39 P. M. and the last at 4:03 P. M. Between these periods there were several fine "sunshine" showers and startling splittings of the air alow and aloft. The rain came down in sheets for a few minutes between 1 and 2 o'clock. when most of the 1.2 inches measured by the official gage fell. The loudest reports, and those closest to earth, came in The Bronx, where one of the local official prophets lives. The wind during the storm blew chiefly from west and northwest. In the evening it had got around to the east and was making only about six miles.

TEN TO HOSPITAL PROM THIS CAR

In a wild scramble to get off a Mount Vernon trolley oar that was struck by lightning at 170th street and Webster avenue ten persons were hurt badly enough to be removed to Lebanon Hospital suffering from shock and bruises. A nine-year old girl was the most seriously injured. for it is thought that her skull was fractured. In addition to those taken to the hospital most of whom remained but a short time, a score of others were slightly hurt. Everybody aboard the open car was shocked. The car was bound to Mount Vernon It was a 60-foot car and there were nearly 140 men, women and children aboard. Between some of the seats there were standees. The constant opening of the screens to take on new passengers had wet the floor and most of the seats. When the bolt fell flames shot out from the foot of each motor box, and the next moment the whole car; including the wet floor and the seats, be came charged with electricity. The metal work of the car was charged, and persons who had their hands on metal cried out. Bernard Clarkin of 21 Franklin avenue. New Rochelle, the motorman, fell back on the front seat blinded by the flash from the motor box. Blue flame shot out from the bottom of the box and set fire to his trousers. He dropped the controller quickly and was only slightly shocked. The car was going so fast that it went on of its own nentum. The motors had burned out. In the car men fought to hoist the rain screens and to get off the moving car. Women and children were trampled on.

where they were jumping or how. So did Nine-year-old Irene Jackson of 742 East 145th street was sitting in the front seat with her father and mother. Her father was pushed from the car and then the child was pushed out of her seat. She fell under the footboard and would have been crushed if a man directly behind her had not bent over quickly, grabbed her by the clothing and pulled her from under the car. The front wheel cut off some of her hair and gave her a couple of bad gashes in the Motorman Clarkin put out his burning rousers before the car had run a block. Then he put on the brakes and stopped the car fifty feet further on. All the way back to where the lightning had struck people were lying in the street. Women and childrep were still in the car crying for help. All the men had got off. The persons who remained in the car were suffering from shock and fright. Smoke came through the flooring, but there were no flames. to his post and pulled the trolley pole off the feed wire.

Ambulances and reserves arrived quickly and Drs. Bose and Aronow of the Lebanon Hospital began work. The ambulances took five to the hospital and the patrol wagon five. The police took the names of these sixteen injured:

Irene Jackson, probable fracture of the skull, scalp wounds and contusions; Mrs. Theresa Ulrich, Inwood avenue and 157th street, contusions; Maggie Dietz, 12 years old, same address, and Mary Ulrich, daughter of Mrs. Ulrich, contusions and shock;
